11:30–11:45 am | Introductions & Schedule Overview

A welcome from NCFP staff leadership and preview of Day One of the Institute.

11:45 am–12:30 pm | Translating Shared Values into Action

What motivates you and your family to give? Are you called to advance a particular grantmaking mission? Or are you interested in creating an opportunity for family members to come together and strengthen family ties through philanthropy and service to others? Or is it both? Regardless, the ability to work together with other members of your family to translate values into action is fundamental to your success. In this interactive session, participants will hear stories of multigenerational families and join small group discussions to share personal perspectives on family values, evolving mission and community needs, and family engagement.

Confirmed Speakers:

12:40–1:40 pm | Understanding and Managing Family Systems

Family philanthropy is complicated. It's an effort that solves for many distinct and diverse opinions—one that often amplifies the dynamics of a family. Understanding the culture of our family and the dynamics that exist raises awareness about the way a family views identity, purpose, beliefs about money and giving, and how these views impact our decisions. Participants will gain an understanding of family systems allowing them to move with more intention, leveraging the strengths of their family systems, and plan for the predictable patterns that emerge in various conditions.

Confirmed Speaker:

- Danielle Oristian York, Executive Director & President, 21/64

1:40–1:45 pm | Technology Break

1:45–2:45 pm | Fundamentals of Good Family Philanthropy Governance

Effective governance is the mainstay for a successful family philanthropy effort. But what is governance and how is it adopted into a giving practice? Join family philanthropy experts and practitioners to explore how to adopt principles, policies and practices that will organize your giving. We encourage all participants to bring questions and dilemmas to this interactive conversation on how orient your family for success through proper decision-making strategies.

Confirmed Speaker:

- Ashley Snowdon Blanchard, Senior Associate, Lansberg Gersick & Associates and Trustee, Hill-Snowdon Foundation

2:45–3:00 pm | Break

2:00–2:10 pm | Break

2:10–2:55 pm | Breakout Sessions

Breakout sessions will include dynamic interactive workshops featuring foundation leaders and program partners from The Philanthropy Workshop, 21/64, and more!

Option #1: Grantmaking Strategy

Grantmaking is key to the impact of any giving family. Learn about various strategies engaged by giving families and how to refine your strategy and engage your family to fit your grantmaking goals, values, and governance structure.

Confirmed Speakers:

- Jennifer Davis, Executive Vice President, The Philanthropy Workshop
- Renee Kaplan, Chief Executive Officer, The Philanthropy Workshop

Option #2: Navigating Wealth, Privilege, and Values—Charting Your Own Path

Recent turbulent times have made privilege—of wealth, health, community, employment, race, and more—increasingly apparent. Some next gen donors feel guilt related to the privilege of their wealth, especially when so many are struggling to meet basic needs; while older generations, particularly those who have made the wealth, may not see privilege through the same lens. The zeitgeist around acknowledging, understanding and leveraging privilege towards positive change has gained momentum. In this breakout, we will consider how to use what we have towards greater purpose and meaning. During this reflective, highly interactive workshop, you will:

- Examine what privilege means to you and explore the messages you have received about your resources.
- Clarify the values and messages you aspire to align with your giving.
- Explore with peers how to make meaning and connection around these topics.
- Envision how you can leverage your privilege of all sorts in a journey towards ever more impactful and meaningful giving and change-making
- Come away with practical ideas and refreshed energy

Confirmed Speaker:

- Janice Simsohn Shaw, Facilitator and Consultant

Option #3: Values-aligned Investing 101

All investments have the potential for impact. How can you pursue investments that promote values alignment across asset classes, investment vehicles, and advocacy strategies? Options include cash, proxy voting, shareholder engagement, program related investing, screening public equities, private equity, and more. In this “101” session led by staff and board leaders from Confluence Philanthropy, you’ll explore options for aligning capital in all its forms with your values and mission.

Confirmed Speakers:

- Dana Lanza, President, CEO, and Co-founder, Confluence Philanthropy
- Kathleen Simpson, Interim Chief Executive Officer and Chief Financial Officer, The Russell Family Foundation

Option #4: Flipping the Script: Shifting Foundation Power to Community

Changing the ways we do things as foundations is not easy. We have systems and processes that have worked very well for us for many years, even if these same systems and processes have not worked so well for the nonprofits we fund or the issues we care about. What happens when a foundation deeply listens to the community and then changes its approach so that the community has more voice and the foundation takes more direction from the activists and leaders on the ground? Using real life examples of shifting power away from the foundation and to community, you will learn what went well, what went wrong, and lessons to help you think about how you build authentic trust and shift power to community.

Confirmed Speakers:

- Ron Harris, Community Advisor, Jay & Rose Phillips Family Foundation of Minnesota and Chief Resilience Officer, City of Minneapolis
- Patrick Troska, President, The Jay & Rose Phillips Family Foundation of Minnesota

2:55–3:00 pm | Technology Break

3:00–3:45 pm | Donor Perspectives: A Conversation with Irene Pritzker and Liesel Pritzker Simmons

Family philanthropy is an ever-evolving journey—one that often has points of unity and divergence. Many giving families will reach a point in their history when individual family members are keen to explore their own identity and chart their own path; however, it doesn't mean that partnership and collaboration is lost. In this session, participants will hear two generations of philanthropists discuss strategies for impact as well as the challenge of balancing personal and shared interests to support successful philanthropic initiatives.

Confirmed Speakers:

- Irene Pritzker, President and CEO, IDP Foundation
- Liesel Pritzker Simmons, Co-Founder and Principal, Blue Haven Initiative
- Nick Tedesco, President and CEO, National Center for Family Philanthropy

3:45–4:00 pm | Daily Check Out & Announcements

A brief recap of the day and preview of Day Three of the Institute.

4:00–4:20 pm | Ask the Attorney 4:30–4:50 pm | Ask the Attorney 5:00–5:20 pm | Ask the Attorney

Participants will be able to schedule one-on-one time with Andras Kosaras to discuss legal issues. Signups will be available to registrants closer to the event.

Confirmed Speaker:

- Andras Kosaras, Counsel, Arnold & Porter

4:00–4:20 pm | Ask the Investment Director 4:30–4:50 pm | Ask the Investment Director 5:00–5:20 pm | Ask the Investment Director

Participants will be able to schedule one-on-one time with Paul Liu to ask investment questions. Signups will be available to registrants closer to the event.

Confirmed Speaker:

- Paul Liu, Investment Managing Director, Cambridge Associates

DAY THREE: FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 25

9:30–9:50 am | Ask the Attorney 10:00–10:20 am | Ask the Attorney 10:30–10:50 am | Ask the Attorney

Participants will be able to schedule one-on-one time with Andras Kosaras to discuss legal issues. Signups will be available to registrants closer to the event.

Confirmed Speaker:

- Andras Kosaras, Counsel, Arnold & Porter

11:30–11:45 am | Opening & Announcements

A welcome from NCFP staff leadership and preview of the final day of the Institute.

11:45 am–12:45 pm | Numbers Can Tell a Story: Investments and Impact

Philanthropy is more than giving of one's time and money; it is the responsible stewardship of capital for the greater good. During this session, experts will describe the annual reporting requirements of private foundations, how the capital assets of endowments and foundations can be deployed to accomplish your organization's mission, and strategies and potential challenges of investing in a down market. The discussion will provide a fresh lens on how to manage risk of grants, program and mission investments, and traditional investments while achieving your foundation's desired impact on the world.

Confirmed Speakers:

- Laura Collins, Director of Development and Exempt Organizations, KMPG
- Chris Fletcher, Executive Director, Institutional Portfolio Solutions, JP Morgan
- Ellie Frey Zagel, Vice Chair, Frey Foundation

12:45–1:30 pm | Trust-based Family Philanthropy

In this session, learn about the trust-based framework and how these practices align with family legacy and values through an interview with a family foundation executive director and board chair. How do trust-based practices play out at the staff and board level in their work with community partners, and what are the benefits of this approach? Participants will learn about how foundations and grantees both benefit from a trust-based lens, and will have a chance to consider practical next steps to build more productive and balanced funder-grantee relationships.

Confirmed Speakers:

- Dimple Abichandani, Executive Director, General Service Foundation
- Shaady Salehi, Director, Trust-Based Philanthropy Project
- Robin Snidow, Board Chair, General Service Foundation

1:30–1:55 pm | Break

1:55–2:40 pm | Breakout Sessions

Breakout sessions will include dynamic interactive workshops featuring foundation leaders and program partners from The Philanthropy Workshop, 21/64, and more!

Option #1: Grantmaking Strategy

Grantmaking is key to the impact of any giving family. Learn about various strategies engaged by giving families and how to refine your strategy and engage your family to fit your grantmaking goals, values, and governance structure.

- Renee Kaplan, Chief Executive Officer, The Philanthropy Workshop

Option #2: Consensus and Decision Making

Join next-gen family giver and game social entrepreneur Peter Williamson for an interactive, engaging round of the game Consensus! In this interactive session, we will draw upon our personal ethics and views as we debate key family philanthropy topics. Following the game, participate in facilitated small group discussions that will help you learn a bit more about your peers, and how to find common ground and make effective decisions with your own board!

Confirmed Speaker:

- Peter Williamson, Founder, Game Genius and Next-gen Family Member, Kettering Family Foundation

Option #3: Investing with a Racial Equity Lens

What is the role of racial equity in the investment strategies and processes of your foundation? How can you embed racial equity in your investment committee meetings and decisions regarding capital deployment? Achieving racial equity is typically presented as daunting, perhaps even unattainable. But change is possible with sincere commitment, clear goals, and measurable benchmarks. Join this discussion with three leaders of Confluence Philanthropy's 2020 Belonging Pledge for tips and suggestions on how to invest with a racial equity lens.

Confirmed Speakers:

- Rini Banerjee, Executive Director, Jessie Smith Noyes Foundation
- Tamara Larsen, Executive Director, Mission-aligned Investing, Agility
- Greg Ratliff, Vice President, Rockefeller Philanthropy Advisors and Board Member, Confluence Philanthropy
